Firm Overview

Stonehill Ratliff is a Pennsylvania-based municipal consulting firm specializing in strategic advisory support for local governments facing critical, disastrous, or debilitating challenges. Founded by two International City/County Management Association (ICMA) Credentialed Managers, the firm provides executive-level services to elected officials, municipal administrators, and governing bodies navigating complex challenges.

With over 50 years of combined local government experience, Stonehill Ratliff is uniquely positioned to support cities, boroughs, and townships facing acute organizational crises, operational uncertainty, or transitional leadership needs. We are available for immediate engagement and work discreetly, efficiently, and in alignment with the goals of governing officials.
