

Penn State's Local Climate Action Program (LCAP) is recruiting communities from around the state who are interested in reducing emissions and preparing for a changing climate. Join us on Zoom, February 4th from 2-3 pm to learn more about this year long, cohort-based program where we'll partner you with students to first complete a community-wide greenhouse gas emissions inventory and then support climate planning. We can take between 8-10 communities for the coming year.

Please register for the event even if you're not able to join, a recording will be distributed to everyone who registers. If you have any questions about the program please contact Brandi Robinson (brobinson@psu.edu) or Peter Buck (peterbuck@psu.edu) for more information.
